HUNTER: THE RECKONING | AVENGER

The Imbuing of Avengers:

The call to vengeance is always violent. Someone - or something - almost always dies whether it's some civilian, his attacker or the hunter in question. You were "reborn" amid death and consecrated in blood.

Character Creation:

Physical attributes who bolster their frailties with weaponry. High firearm ratings coupled with wits.

Hunter: Apocrypha

Traditional views of good and evil.

THE CONSEQUENCES OF ONE'S OWN ACTIONS | THE CASE OF VALARIE FOX

The Imbuing:

Valarie Fox was reborn amid the heaviest death suffered among Christopher Dyer's tabletopping career during Session 18 with Randome and Squall. In addition to this, she got herself killed. I believe consecrated in blood doesn't even quite justify the amount of blood split within the span of that hour.

She was reborn due to Cyb, who himself had no idea which "world" of darkness he was even in. When questioned about other denizens such as Sin-Eaters, he asked if they were Wraiths from where he came from. Even though they called Val a "Hunter", there is no way for him to distinguish between what a Hunter is from the Old World of Darkness to the Chronicles of Darkness. He rebuilt her from what he knew what a Hunter was.

After this incident in Session 19, Val began seeing hallucinations of those Hunters that died through what she deemed medically as Psychosis. However, this wasn't the case, as those were Angels communicating to her with forms that she may recognize.

In between Season One and Two of New England By Night, she opened her eyes.

Character Creation:

Valarie Fox couples high firearm ratings with wits to offset her small stature.
